HOLLAND IN FUROR OVER BIRTH OF PRINCESS TODAY

General Rejoicing Because the House of Orange Has Been Saved, Though the People's Joy Would be Complete if a Son Had Been Born to the Queen.

(Special from United Press.) The Hague, April 30.—All Holland is in a furor of celebration to-day over the birth of a daughter to Queen Wilhelmina, at 7 o'clock this morning. The Queen stood the ordeal splendidly and Dr. Kower, her physician-in-chief, issued a bulletin shortly before noon that no untoward developments are expected.

Just one thing keeps the Hollanders' joy from being complete and that is that a son was not born. The house of Orange has been saved however and the populace is not letting its slight disappointment affect to any appreciable degree its celebration. Immediately after the birth of the princess a salute of 51 guns was fired. Had the heir been a son 101 rounds would have been fired. Flags are flying from nearly every house in the city. But few of the shops are open and the celebration now under way will continue the remainder of the week. The telegraph office is flooded with congratulatory telegrams from all over the world.

Prince Consort Henry personally reported the birth of the princess to the Registrar General with many of the ministers of state as witnesses. Queen Wilhelmina Helena Pauline Maria is 28 years old and was married eight years ago to Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. Then the court couple disappointed the Dutch people in their hope for an heir to the throne in 1902 and 1906. At the time of the last disappointment it was announced that the House of Orange was doomed to extinction as all hope for an heir had been abandoned.

This announcement filled the people with apprehension as the succession to the Dutch throne would have passed to the hands of the Germans and the final absorption of the kingdom by Germany would have been inevitable. Owing to repeated false alarms the official salute was not fired until an hour after the princess was born, the artists demanding proof of the birth before celebrating the public.

TRAIN HOLD-UP BY BANDITS AND MAIL CAR ROBBED

(Special from United Press.) Rathdrum, Idaho, April 30.—Northern Pacific Passenger Train No. 3 was held up by bandits near Hauser Junction late last night, the engine, and mail car detached from the train and the engineer compelled to run it to a point between Trent and Yardley, where the mail car was robbed. Posses have been sent against the bandits from two sides and word is expected at any time of a sanguinary battle. It is not known here whether the bandits got valuable booty.

The train was flagged three miles east of Hauser Junction and the mail car cut out. Then the bandits climbed aboard the engine and threw the fireman off. While one of their number attended to the smoking the others at the point of their revolvers compelled Engineer Whitely to draw ahead. As the engine and one car passed through Hauser the tower operator saw what was missing and sent word ahead. Posses were armed and sent out to terrify the thieves if possible. The engine and mail car passed Trent all right but was not reported at Yardley so it is known that the robbers are in that vicinity.

MANY TEACHERS ATTEND NIBLO'S SECOND TALK

Topic is "Egypt, from Cairo to Khartoum," Which is Treated in Intensely Interesting Manner.

Fred Niblo's second travel talk attracted an audience which was perhaps three times as large as the one that heard his first lecture, not including the teachers in the public schools who were present by special invitation of the management of Smith's. Mr. Niblo's talk was upon Egypt. His descriptions were vivid, although given in a chatty form and in a conversational style. The pictures were exceedingly fine. It was a two hours of travel among a strange people in an interesting land. Views of the pyramids and the Sphinx, more ancient than history, were shown in conjunction with views of the great Assouan Dam, a creation of recent times, more wonderful as an engineering feat than either, and incomparably more useful, inasmuch as it enables a large part of upper Egypt to be irrigated.

Next Tuesday evening Mr. Niblo will be heard in his third and last talk. His subject will be from "The Black Sea to Siberia."

In the second part of the talk the assumed party, which included the audience, sailed up the Nile, viewing the historic ruins of ancient Egypt, with their gigantic gateways and their enormous figures of dead Gods entombed in vanished creeds.

Next Tuesday evening Mr. Niblo will be heard in his third and last talk. His subject will be from "The Black Sea to Siberia."

DEMAND THAT HEN'S CLAWS BE CUT OFF

The Board of Health is much pleased with the conditions which exist in the city this spring. The yards and enclosures are much cleaner than usual. Property owners have generally complied with the regulations of the board and those places which have not been cleaned up in compliance with the orders of the inspectors have been cared for at the expense of the property owners. The backward season has made it impossible for householders to make the work complete as most furnaces have not been extinguished for the season and the ash question is still a factor in many households. The garbage and refuse question is rapidly giving place to the chicken question.

The office of the Board of Health is flooded with complaints concerning chickens which are loose in the community. This morning Sanitary Inspector Lynch was busy with complaints from the residents of Herbert street who said that the residents of Merriam street allow their hens to run at large and that they are scratching up early peas and radishes. Investigation by the inspector disclosed the fact that the Merriam street hens have legs and claws abnormally developed and that three or four of this variety are able to root up about everything in the average back yard in a short time. The Merriam street people ask that the inspector either cut the claws of the hens of the vicinity or compel their owners to confine them.
